Nelson Mandela Apartments is a new-construction development with 72 residential units in 13 buildings in Chicago’s west Humboldt Park neighborhood. It includes a mix of one, two, and three bedroom apartments with, accessible and adaptable units available for persons with mobility disabilities and/or sensory impairment.

The development is environmentally-friendly and features Energy Star appliances, energy-efficient insulation, windows, lighting, and heating & cooling systems. These features provide a healthy living environment, offer utility savings, and have a positive impact on the environment.

Nelson Mandela Apartments serves as a bridge between two existing Bickerdike housing projects in the area, Harold Washington Unity Coop and Rosa Parks Apartments.
